Distributors of Compostable/Recyclable Food Service Products - 2016

When purchasing products for events, meetings, or your business, the City recommends that you specify “compostable and recyclable”, non-bioplastic containers, if possible. Coated and uncoated paper food containers should also contain a minimum of 90% paper.

Currently, bio-plastic products cannot be effectively composted in home composters or municipal composting operations used by the City of Santa Monica. Even though certain bio-plastic containers are labeled as compostable, the existing composting facility currently used by the City of Santa Monica is unable to process these bio-plastics. The City is exploring opportunities which will one day allow residents and businesses to dispose of their bio-plastics in the composting bin. Until then, bio-plastic products should be disposed of in the black trash bin.

If you would like to suggest additions or corrections, please call the Office of Sustainability and the Environment at 310.458.4925 or visit us at www.sustainablesm.org/container.
